

What Could $25,000 Do in a Lifetime?

Many people assume becoming a millionaire requires something extraordinary like a big salary, a lucky break, or a large inheritance. In truth, it only requires one thing: starting early.

Alex Sasso, CEO of NCM Investments, saw this firsthand with his own daughter. When she got her first job and was still living at home, he encouraged her to start investing. At first, she didn't see the point. Then he asked her one question: "Could you save $25,000 over the next few years?"

When she said yes, he showed her the math:

*The Morningstar quartile ranking reflects performance as of April 30, 2026 and is subject to change. Morningstar is an independent organization that groups mutual funds with generally similar investment objectives for comparison purposes and ranks them on a historical basis. These rankings are broken into quarters or quartiles. Within a group, the top 25% (or quarter) of the funds are in the first quartile, the next 25% are in the second quartile, the next group in the third quartile, and the bottom 25% of funds with the poorest relative performance are in the fourth quartile.
