RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

NCM Core Canadian's (the "Fund") objective is to provide investors with large cap Canadian equity exposure with reduced volatility while creating a Fund that looks significantly different than the S&P/TSX Index. To accomplish this objective, we mostly buy lower Beta (historically less volatile) stocks in the portfolio and are typically underweight the more volatile sectors such as Energy and Materials. Our focus is on ensuring the overall portfolio has lower volatility than the market so we will own some higher volatility securities at certain times of the market cycle.

The Fund searches the Canadian universe for stocks with lower volatility, high profitability, strong momentum characteristics, good growth profiles and solid yields; and then overlays a value investing style before deciding which stocks are included. The result is a value portfolio that typically underweights direct exposure to cyclical stocks that the average Canadian equity fund possesses. We strive to create a portfolio with high active share, which means we look significantly different than the index and most of the other large cap Canadian equity funds. We are also very active in that we sell companies that are not meeting our expectations quickly and replace them with new ideas. Finally, unlike most Canadian equity funds, we have made the commitment to be 100% Canadian with our investment choices. All the holdings in the fund trade on Canadian exchanges.

It was an excellent absolute six-month period for the Fund as it returned 13.0%. Unfortunately, higher volatility stocks drove the Fund's benchmark, the S&P/TSX Composite Total Return Index, and it returned 15.3%. What we believe to be a more appropriate measuring stick, the S&P/TSX Low Volatility TRI, returned 14.7%. The Fund was significantly ahead of both indices after five months but had a difficult March. Over longer time periods, the Fund continues to outperform the low volatility index despite trailing its higher volatility benchmark. While this is not surprising in a low volatility fund (lower highs and higher lows), going forward, the Fund will need to improve in keeping up when higher volatility stocks drive market performance. The good news for the Fund is that the low volatility index has underperformed the broader TSX index for the last four years. Given the Fund's lower volatility mandate, we see this as a potential tailwind in the coming year as the low volatility index closes the gap between the two indices.

As of March 31, 2024, the Fund had a combined 26.1% exposure to Energy and Materials. As a comparison, the benchmark had 29.0% exposure to those same two sectors. This is an increase from the last reporting period but much of the additional exposure to these sectors came from the addition of a lower volatility pipeline company and a gold position rather than energy producers and other metal miners. The Fund was overweight the Industrials, Consumer Staples, and Utilities sectors. The Fund was underweight the Energy, Materials, Consumer Discretionary, Health Care, and Financials sectors.

We made some changes to the portfolio over the last six-months. First, we increased the Fund's energy exposure from 13.4% to 20.0%. Second, we increased the Fund's technology exposure to 8.0% bringing it to close to market weight. Finally, we reduced the weight in the Real Estate sector to market weight of 2.0%. As always, we were active with regards to trading in the Fund. We believe that we can add value by trading around our core positions in these volatile times.

We continue to focus on creating a portfolio with very strong attributes as compared to the market. The Fund, as always, trades at a discount to the market based on price-to-earnings multiple on both a trailing and a forward basis. The companies in the portfolio remain significantly more profitable based on return on equity, they have higher growth rates, generate a higher free cash flow yield, and have a dividend yield of about 3.1% compared to the benchmark at 3.1%. Finally, the stocks in the Fund have excellent momentum characteristics, which have historically been the biggest contributor to performance.

Going forward, we expect the portfolio to stick to its strict discipline and active management investment style. We expect to continue to quickly exit positions that are not working in our favour and to establish new positions in securities that are reporting good results. We will stick to our discipline of creating a lower Beta portfolio of dividend-paying stocks that trade at a reasonable valuation as a means of providing guarded growth.

On May 27, 2024, the Fund moved from a T+2 settlement period to a T+1 settlement period for securities. This means that securities transactions will settle on the next business day following their transaction date instead of two days following their transaction date.

The net assets have decreased by 1.62% with net assets decreasing from $11,136,040 to $10,955,134, $1,332,641 of this change is attributable to positive investment performance and $1,513,547 was due to negative net contributions to the Fund.

RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

(2) Distributions, if any, are reinvested in additional shares or paid in cash when requested.

(3) Net asset value and distributions are based on the actual number of shares outstanding at the relevant time. The increase (decrease) from operations is based on the weighted average number of shares outstanding over the financial period. Due to the different methods of calculating individual components of the table, the sum of the individual components will not necessarily equal the ending net asset value.

- ⁽²⁾ Management expense ratio (MER) is based on total expenses for the stated period and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value of the period.
- ⁽³⁾ The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's Portfolio Manager manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of a period. The higher the Fund's portfolio turnover rate in a period, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and performance of the Fund.
- ⁽⁴⁾ The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net assets during the period.
- ⁽⁵⁾ NCM Core Canadian Series M commenced operations September 16, 2019.
